It is my pleasure to invite you to attend the Postgraduate Research Student Induction on Tuesday 25th August 2009. Attendance at this event by all research students commencing a PhD or Masters by Research degree is essential to ensure a smooth transition to research study at UNSW and will provide you with important information on key topics including:

- the Graduate Research School
- enrolment, progression and scholarship administration
- services provided across the University for postgraduate research students

In addition, the event will allow you the opportunity to meet other new postgraduate research students, network and make contacts across the University.

For those unfamiliar with the UNSW Kensington campus, the Graduate Research School will be hosting a tour of facilities, key sites and social areas. The tours will take approximately 45 minutes and they leave from the Scientia at 3:15, 3:30 and 4:00 pm.

An Information Fair and BBQ will also be held where you can meet with UNSW Service Providers and gain invaluable information about resources and services offered to postgraduate research students on campus.

Essentials for Postgraduate Research Students, a key publication for all new postgraduate research students will be available for collection on the day or from the Graduate Research School (9am – 5pm weekdays, Level 2, Rupert Myers Building (M15), Gate 14). This publication provides a handy summary of information you will need during your candidature including:

- relevant guidelines, policies and procedures
- advice and resources to help you make the most of your candidature
- useful contacts

In addition to the main Postgraduate Research Student Induction at the Kensington Campus, UNSW@ADFA and the College of Fine Arts will be holding campus specific Inductions. For further information please go to the Induction Information on our website.

I look forward to meeting you in August.

Yours sincerely,
